WISCONSIN 'U' LEADER MAY HEAD DRAFT

Dr. Clarence Dykstra Offered Post As Conscription Director

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Roosevelt today offered the job of conscription director to Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, who took the offer under consideration. It was understood that Dykstra was reluctant to assume the job of martialing America's manpower for military services since the job would entail his separation from Wisconsin University.

The 6500 local draft boards will begin to operate within 24 hours after the estimated 16,404,000 men register on October 16th, conscription officials said today.

The 24 hour goal was disclosed shortly after President Roosevelt approved recommendations by the governors of Maine, Idaho, Arizona and Colorado establishing local draft machinery in those states, his rapid approval of the setup for other states is expected to follow.

"All local boards, as well as state headquarters in 52 states and territories, must begin operations immediately on October 17, the day after the nationwide registration," the headquarters said.

Draft officials were preparing to issue quotas to the various states for the first call for conscripts.

Each state is given credit for the number of men voluntarily serving in any branch of the armed services of the nation.

To assist in getting the local boards housed and organized by October 17, conscription headquarters yesterday released detailed regulations governing such things as obtaining offices, hiring clerical help, and procuring office equipment and supplies.

Navy Will Fill Crew Strength

Admiral Confers With President And Secretary On Visit To Washington

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that he did "not concur" in published reports that the United States would be at war with Japan on Oct. 17, the scheduled date for Britain's reopening of the Burma Road to China.

Knox added that he had talked over the general situation in the Pacific with Admiral James O. Richardson, Commander of the United States fleet who also conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt. Richardson came to this country with the first contingent of the fleet, now based at Hawaii, to take shore leave on the west coast.

Knox said that 4200 recruits will be assembled on the Pacific Coast to accompany the first fleet contingent back to Hawaii. The additional men, he explained, will be used to build up warship crews to full 100 per cent strength as compared to their present makeup of only 82 per cent.

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE TUESDAY, OCT. 15. AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The regular Child Health Conference for October will be conducted Tuesday, October 15, at Placerville Grammar school under the auspices of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the state health department.

A local physician will be in charge and will be assisted by the school nurse, Miss Lenore Holm, and by Mrs. Horace Dunn and other members of the P. T. A.

The series of once a month conferences provides the opportunity for mothers who are not taking their children regularly to a private physician with the opportunity for a medical check-up and consultation for their infants and pre-school children.

Mrs. Edith Miller is spending several days at Sacramento visiting her son and family.

Henry Bacchi was a caller from the Lotus vicinity Wednesday morning.

Vincent Waldron was a visitor at San Francisco on Wednesday.

These are actual samples of the capsules to be used at the national draft lottery to be held in Washington, D. C., a week or so after the first registration. Number 258, the number photographed, was the first number drawn during the 1917 lottery. Numbers are printed on white cardboard and inserted inside the capsules.

SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD FOR COUNTY IS NAMED

Dr. W. A. Rantz, Homer P. Brown, Dwight Douglas Are Appointed By Governor Subject To Expected Confirmation By The President

SACRAMENTO, (UP) — Gov. Culbert Olson today announced members of the 338 draft boards in California, who will serve without pay in administering the selective service conscription program.

The committees must be confirmed by President Roosevelt but acceptance was expected without delay. The names were chosen chiefly by superior court judges in each county, with the assistance of the draft headquarters in Sacramento.

After men from 21 through 36 register on Oct. 16, the names of those conscripted will be turned over to the local boards for determination of deferred persons and appeals. One physician will serve with each board and any cases he chooses not to decide will be referred to an advisory medical board of seven specialists. There will be one advisory board for each 600,000 population.

Chief duty of the local boards will be to study the detailed questionnaires filled out by conscripts to determine such questions as dependents, employment, fitness for military service, and health.

The committee for El Dorado county includes: Dr. W. A. Rantz, Homer P. Brown and Dwight E. Douglas.

Willkie Campaigns Through New England; Talk Tonight

By WILLIAM H. LAWRENCE United Press Staff Correspondent

WITH WILLKIE MOTORCADE. Wendell L. Willkie pledged today that if elected President, "this country won't go to war until the people say they want war."

He made this pledge at a campaign rally in New York City's Harlem just before boarding the special train that carried him to Stamford, Conn., where this morning he began a rail and automobile stumping tour of Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts. Today he tours the industrial districts of Connecticut by motor visiting Stamford, Norwalk, Bridgeport, Woodbury, Hartford and New Haven. He speaks at Hartford this afternoon; at New Haven, tonight. Willkie did not amplify his declaration that under his administration the nation wouldn't go to war, "until the people say they want war," and it could not be learned whether he intended this as an endorsement of the Ludlow war referendum constitutional amendment, which has been killed several times in Congress. That constitutional change, sponsored by Rep. Louis Ludlow, D., Ind., would require a vote of the people before any except a defensive war could be fought.

Willkie's speech in New Haven tonight will be a major one and will be broadcast. Willkie did not amplify his declaration that under his administration the nation wouldn't go to war, "until the people say they want war," and it could not be learned whether he intended this as an endorsement of the Ludlow war referendum constitutional amendment, which has been killed several times in Congress. SHAKESPEARE CLUB TO HAVE STATE DRAMA CHAIRMAN AS SPEAKER AT LUNCHEON

Discussion of South American countries, their early civilization, arts, culture and architecture occupied the attention of the travel section of the Shakespeare Club on Tuesday, October 8th. An outline of program for the November meeting of this section was presented and will take place on the second Tuesday of the month.

Tuesday, October 15th has been designated as the occasion for the annual luncheon with Mrs. Fish, state chairman of drama, as guest speaker. Mrs. Fish is widely known as a very talented reader and will entertain with the reading of a comedy. Reservations for this 1 p. m. luncheon are to be made with Mrs. Percy McNie of Camino.

The entertainment scheduled by Mrs. Carpenter for Oct. 30th has been postponed until Friday, Nov. 1st.

CONGRESS ABANDONS HOPE OF ADJOURNMENT THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON (UP) — House leaders today abandoned efforts to recess congress this week.

We will not make any effort this week to adjourn congress to a day certain," Speaker Sam Rayburn declared. "We have come to that conclusion for reasons sufficient to us at the present time."

He declined to explain the "sufficient reasons," but the inference was that the administration lacked votes to pass a resolution for a recess until Nov. 18, as proposed.

NEW CLARKSVILLE ROUTE OPEN FOR TRAVEL ON THURSDAY

The realignment of U. S. Route 50 through the Clarksville section, under construction during the past summer, will be open to travel on Thursday, it was learned Wednesday by Frank R. Hull, resident agent for the California State Automobile Association.

A portion of the route has been open to travel for several weeks past, but on Thursday the entire new realignment will be put into service.

The section from a point east of the Mayhew home, near what is known as Freeman's barn, westerly to the foot of Clarksville hill and thence straight westerly to connect with the old route about three and one-half miles east of Polson.

SUPERVISORS TO RENEW AIRPORT OPTION AT LAKE TAHOE

The Board of Supervisors took action Tuesday approving a proposal to renew an option taken on property at Lake Tahoe, thought suitable as an airport site.

The property, it is understood, is that bordering the highway immediately on the north at the foot of Meyers Grade.

Renewal of the option, which is at no expense to the county, was suggested by the aviation committee of the County Chamber of Commerce, Dr. D. W. Babcock, chairman, in view of listing of the site as one for possible improvement in the national defense program.

FIRES SWEEP 30 MILLION U. S. ACRES

Timber Destroyed During 1939 Season On Forests Would Build 350,000 Homes

WASHINGTON, — A forest fire every two and one-half minutes or a total of 212,671 fires, was the 1939 record for the United States according to a report issued by the U. S. Forest Service for National Fire Prevention Week.

The area of forest lands burned over by these fires was 30 million acres, equal to nearly one-third of the total area of the State of California. The fire loss was $40,000,000. The timber destroyed would have built 350,000 six-room frame homes.

California with 5,504 fires on protected and unprotected lands last year led all western states and had 621,000 acres swept by flames with estimated fire damage of over $1,500,000.

Oregon had 2491 fires; 380,310 acres burned and $2,171,000 damage. Washington was third in losses with 2266 fires, 135,130 acres burned and damage totaling $293,240.

The real forest fire center of the United States, however, is in the southern states extending from North Carolina to Texas. In these eleven states during 1939 there were 156,012 fires that swept over an area of nearly 28 million acres and caused damage amounting to $30,500,000.

The three states of Florida, Mississippi and Georgia, where setting fires to kill snakes and wood ticks is a costly pastime, accounted for 83,000 fires which burned 17,000,000 acres and caused damage totaling $19,500,000.

Out of 585,422,000 acres of forest land in the United States forest protection, the Forest Service reports that 152,167,000 acres are still without an organized fire prevention system. Even much of the area now under protection still lacks an adequate fire fighting force and equipment although the cost of proper protection facilities would amount to only a few cents an acre each year in most areas.

Fire Season In West Quiet

Regional Forester Notes Total Of Blazes Lower Than This Time Last Year

SAN FRANCISCO — By presidential proclamation the Nation is observing Fire Prevention Week beginning October 6th. This occasion brings to light a U. S. Forest Service report on its fire fighting activities to date this year and, incidentally, presents forest rangers with the opportunity to ask the cooperation of Californians in reducing the number of man-caused fires.

"We had a comparatively quiet fire season," declared Regional Forester S. B. Shaw, "despite the severity of fire weather and the heavy recreational use of the 18 national forests of the state."

Due to the growing influx of the hunters, fishermen, campers and motorists in the national forests, the Forest Service reports a one per cent increase in man-caused fires to date this year as compared to the same period last year. However, nature was credited with a more favorable showing as a result of fewer and less severe lightning storms and a consequent reduction in lightning fires.

Since January 1 forest rangers in California have fought a total of 1340 fires. At this time last year the number was 2397. This represents more than 45 per cent reduction in the number of fires on public lands protected by the Forest Service in this state.

During the Week's observance, all deer and bird hunters and fall color sightseers will continue to be cautioned about late season forest fires. For a while longer the warning sign reads, "forest fire danger is still generally prevalent, especially in southern California, watersheds."

George E. Faugstad was at Sacramento on business Wednesday.

Supervisor Carl Niegel, was in town Wednesday from Cool.

County Clerk Arthur J. Koletzke was at Sacramento Wednesday.

Plane Carrying 125 Men To Be Guide For Ships Of Tomorrow

SANTA MONICA, (UP) — Douglas Aircraft today described the huge B-19 bomber it is completing for the army as "the largest and most powerful airplane ever constructed, a veritable aerial breadnaught, armed with machine guns, cannon, and a huge bomb load."

Douglas released details of the great ship which will be wheeled out of the factory within a few weeks for ground checks preliminary to the test flights later in the fall.

With a range of 7500 miles, the plane can fly across the Atlantic ocean with a load of bombs and return.

It will carry a load of 28 tons of bombs, or, as a transport, a force of 125 fully-armed soldiers.

Some idea of the immensity of the super-warplane is given by the figures Douglas released:

Wingspread 212 feet; length 132 feet; height 42 feet 9 inches; landing wheels 8 feet 4 inches in diameter; fully loaded weight more than 80 tons; fuel storage capacity the equal of a railway tank car.

Four Wright-Duplex-Cyclone motors of 2000 horsepower each will drive the ship at a maximum speed of 210 miles per hour.

Douglas Aircraft said when the super-ship is taken over by the army "it will become a flying laboratory for assembling structural and tactical information, and serve as a guide in the design and construction of the great cargo and transports of tomorrow."

Play "Props" Puzzling

Those who are responsible for the properties to be used in the Senior Play, "Mistakes at the Blakes," to be given at the high school auditorium on November 8, are having their troubles.

First off, they need a dog, a large and ferocious animal.

But if you think it would be a simple matter to find one, Director Thomas Flynn reports that after a survey of dogs, big and little, the net result is plenty of small and ferocious ones and an over-supply of big and meek ones, but none big and ferocious.

Mr. Flynn, who is usually able to find the answer for almost any question a student puts to him, is still looking for the answer to a query posed by James Holt, of the cast for "Mistakes at the Blakes."

"What," asks young Mr. Holt, "will we use for the dog, Mr. Flynn?"

75th Year Of Church Noted

Sunday Service Marks Anniversary For St. Patrick's Edifice

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the building housing St. Patrick's Catholic Church, on Sacramento Street, was observed Sunday in solemn services which were attended by members and friends of the parish and by members of the clergy and lay guests from other nearby points.

There were two services during the day. Mass was celebrated Sunday morning with Bishop Thomas K. Gorman, of Reno, officiating.

At eleven o'clock there was a solemn pontifical mass, conducted by Bishop Robert Armstrong, of Sacramento.

The regular choir of the church, augmented by several local voices, was heard during this service and Mrs. Leland T. Cook and George McKee were soloists.

At one-thirty o'clock, there was a luncheon at St. Patrick's Hall for the visiting clergy and which a number of lay guests also attended. Monsignor Thomas A. Horgan was master of ceremonies and among those who spoke were Rev. P. A. McHugh, of Sacramento; Judge George H. Thompson and Miss Mary O'Donnell, of Placerville; Bishop Armstrong and the Rev. Father T. J. Hayes, pastor of the church.

AIR RAIDS HIT LONDON, BERLIN

Battle Rages Fiercely As Threat Of New Military Blows Echo In Far East

Operations of the Axis powers and Japan threatened new military blows in the Balkans, North Africa and the Far East today, but the real war raged most fiercely in the air over Germany and the British Isles.

Nazi warplanes smashed with bombs and machine guns at streets in London and other cities where the wreckage of buildings, hospitals and homes was piled higher than ever as a result of furious attacks in the last 48 hours.

In London, one bomb destroyed a big section of a hospital in which 108 patients were housed, apparently taking a heavy toll of lives. Another bomb crashed through an air raid shelter in which 150 persons had sought shelter killing eight or more. The toll mounted as Nazi pilots circled back and dropped incendiary bombs on the scene and as others glided low to machine-gun streets in British towns.

The heavy all night attacks on Britain were echoed by the crash of British bombs in Germany, where the London air ministry said that great damage had been inflicted on the Nazi naval bases at Bremen and Wilhelmshaven and the invasion ports along the English Channel and in Holland.

Objectives included oil refineries, power stations, war factories and other targets in line with Prime Minister Winston Churchill's promise that the task of destroying the German war power would not be interrupted to carry out reprisal bombings of Berlin.

In the Balkans, the movement of German troops into Rumania for the purpose of training the Rumanian army in new methods of war was followed by the sudden appearance of Mussolini on a tour of inspection in the Gorizia district on the Yugoslav frontier.

PRESENTATION OF EVIDENCE IS STARTED

Jury Of Eight Men And Four Women Is Seated On Wednesday Morning

Presentation of evidence in the case of Ralph McElroy, of Palo Alto, indicted by the Grand Jury on a charge of negligent homicide in the death of Enos Stredback early in August, opened about ten-thirty o'clock Wednesday morning in the Superior Court.

Proceedings in the case had opened Tuesday but it was not until Wednesday forenoon that the jury was completed and seated. It includes eight men and four women who are:

Josephine Ward, Walter F. Cirby, John H. Grace, Dora Horkenback, Florence Spicer, Roy Marks, Henry Bacchi, Oscar Fleming, Rudolph Shepherd, Dorothy Metcalfe, George E. Bishop and Ernest A. Gray.

The first witness called for the People was County Engineer Don M. Hoffman, who presented a sketch of the site at Lake Tahoe on the highway between Biyou and Al Tahoe where, it is charged, a car driven by the defendant negligently and carelessly, struck and fatally injured Stredback, who was riding a bicycle, on or about August 2.

The People then called D. J. Wilson and Jack Meyn, storekeeper in the vicinity, who was on the stand as court recessed at noon to convene again at one-thirty o'clock.

"THREE LIGHTS FROM A MATCH"

Bankruptcy Threatens U. S.

Willkie Hits Hard at Deficit, Spending and Third Term.

Wendell Willkie is hitting hard at the third term and the national debt as he wages his campaign as the Republican nominee for the presidency. To his mind, both the national debt and the third term are linked together. Both contain threats against the "American Way of Life"; threats of a possible dictatorship.

Wendell Willkie

In the speeches Mr. Willkie has made since the campaign opened, he has been asserting that every democracy which has fallen in the course of history has been destroyed because of overwhelming debt. "For eight long years we have been going down that road. Now the man who has brought that threat to us is asking for a third term."

"We have existed in this country for 160 years under the great tradition that two terms are enough for any president. Yet now, when of all times democracy and the democratic way of life are facing their greatest test, when of all times we should preserve all of the processes of the democratic system, we have a man who says, 'I am indispensable.'"

"This campaign is a crusade for the preservation of the American way of life. This is a crusade to establish an example of liberty for all the world. It is a crusade against the concentration of power in Washington. It is a crusade against the egotism of the doctrine of the indispensable man."

Mr. Willkie's indorsement of the present farm program, with modifications to remove objectionable features of administration, eliminates the question of benefit payments as a campaign issue. But on the debt and the third term, Mr. Willkie has fundamental issues to take to the farmer, home owner and business man. The national debt, rapidly approaching 50 billion dollars, he describes as a mortgage on every farm, home and business in America. He predicts that if President Roosevelt is re-elected, the debt will grow to 75 billion dollars within the next four years.

"The great immediate benefit which can be brought to agriculture," says Mr. Willkie, "is restoration of business-like methods in government and the return of the present ten million unemployed to the payrolls so they again can become purchasers of the farmer's products. I believe both things could be brought about. All that is needed is the touchstone of someone who knows about production, who knows that the most glorious thing in the country is not words, but work."

Household Hint

When washing curtains, shake out the surface dirt before putting them into the tub or washer. For plain white cotton, dotted swiss, or linen curtains, use hot water. For silk or rayon curtains, for cotton laces, nets, and fine sheers, and for colored curtains in any fabric, keep the water for washing and rinsing evenly lukewarm. Always use good thick soapsuds. If the curtains are badly soiled give them a second washing or keep the lather active by adding extra quantities of soap. Rinse several times in clean water, and dry on a stretcher or by hanging on the line. Sash curtains may be hung in place at the windows after washing, and dried smooth by drawing a curtain rod through the hem. Very thin cotton and linen curtains look best lightly starched.

Getting On With New Neighbors

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

When the family move, new problems face the growing children over three or four, especially those of school age. For the lad between six and ten or twelve, adjustment to the other children of the neighborhood may prove a serious ordeal. His courage will be tried. If he is able to stand in his own defense with his fists most of his problems will have ended. On the other hand, if he ranks high in many play skills, excels in sportsmanship and creative fun, he may be able to win a comfortable place without a test by physical combat.

Handling Bullies

His parents will make it easier for him if they will welcome the children of the neighborhood to the premises and guide them in satisfying activities there, making clear that a few rules must be observed. These wise parents will win the respect of the children and their parents of the neighborhood. Especially will they win the good graces of the bullies of this neighborhood. To this end the parents will be careful not to renege these roughnecks on the neighborhood playground. Rather these parents will find ways to hire one or two of the gang leaders to run some errands and to praise them honestly in the presence of their own parents.

There will be the new bullies at school and on the way to it. Fortunately your child if he learns not to fear them. Your daughter will have similar experiences, for there are girl bullies as well as boy bullies; and girls must learn to get along with the boys as well as with other girls.

Entering a new school, even in the same city, will require the learning of many new ways and new methods of school work. When your child moves from country or village to city or vice versa the adjustments to be made will be big.

Be Tacitful

Be careful not to compare the new neighborhood and school unfavorably with the old one. Try to induce your child also to be cautious in this respect. Rather he and you should look for the superior items in the new setting and let others know you have observed them. We like people, you see, who make us feel that where we live, and what we have and do, are worth while. Other people like us for a similar reason. We and our children will get on best in a new school and community as we and our children find ways of making our new neighbors, teachers and friends like us.

You might find some good suggestions in my booklet, Learning to be Likable, which I trust is in your public library. If you would like to have a list of books on getting along with other people, cultivating good personality and good mental health, write me at 235 East 45th Street, N. Y. CHAPTER XXXVI
"MARIANNE, this is Sabra. I just heard you were here. May I come right over and see you?"

Marianne gasped, but managed to say, "Why, yes—do!" A half hour later, Sabra drove up in a big car. As she came up the walk, Marianne noticed that she had aged.

"I had to see you," she began, as soon as the conventional greetings were over. "I—I want you to help me."

"Help you!" Marianne exclaimed. "Yes, I'm terribly unhappy. Only girls like you," enviously, "have a chance for happiness. You're lucky. Trained for something. You know how to do things. If you had to exist in this dull place—waste your time."

"Nonsense! You'll get married, and then . . ."

Sabra shrugged. "Not in this town. I suppose you heard that Tiny married Monte Thurston. But they're headed for the divorce court already. Tiny's more miserable than I am. Only girls like you are lucky. I'm coming to New York this fall—to study. Will you help me get started in something? Anything?"

Marianne gave Sabra her address with the promise, "I'll do all I can."

AFTER Sabra had gone, Marianne thought of what Leonard had said so long ago: "Life has done terrible things to you—that's what you think. In reality, it's trying to save you from some of your crazy little ideas. You're too big for them, Marianne, but it may be years before you realize it."

Leonard had been right. He was always right. A fierce desire to see him again swept over her. She had lost his love—all claim to his respect—but if she could just see him.

She had telephoned Murphy's, but Hickey was out of town—would not be back until the next day. She wanted very much to see him. But Sabra and her crowd kept her so busy with parties during the next few days that she didn't get to Murphy's to see Hickey until the end of the week.

A FUZZY-HAIRED girl sat at the desk, engrossed in a love-story magazine. She didn't hear Marianne enter or pay much attention when she cleared her throat twice.

"Is Hickey here?"

"Back of the shop," grunted the girl, and returned to her magazine.

Just then, Hickey came in, both hands extended.

"Well, if it isn't good to see you, Marianne! From what I read in the paper, you've gone places. Knew you had what it takes."

"Thanks to you," Marianne responded warmly. "Me?" Hickey crooked an eyebrow. "How about Len Bailey? That lad did more for you than . . ."

"Oh, I know, but please don't talk about it. I . . ."

"Lovers' quarrel?" teased Hickey. "Surely, Marianne, you're not as dumb as you used to be. Len's a prince and you two belong together."

"B-b-but, Hickey, he's marrying another girl—"

THE DOOR suddenly opened, and a man came in. Hickey stared incredulously.

"Len—Len Bailey! Jove, it's good to see you! S-a-a-y . . ."

Len didn't seem to see or hear him. He went straight to Marianne, who looked as though she were going to faint, took her in his arms, oblivious to his audience, kissed her.

The office girl put down her magazine. Whew, this was better than the story!

"For the third time, I ask you," Hickey yelled in her ear, "to get me a tee!"

He would! At a time like this. She got up and flounced into the back room. Hickey followed, closing the door behind them.

LEN WAS saying, "I came right away, sweetheart, when I knew you had broken your engagement—that is, after Jill told me it was Tom she loved."

Marianne nestled in his arms. Wordless, content with the glory of knowing Len was with her. Breathless with the ardor of his kisses. Her fingers moved lovingly up the rough tweed of his coat sleeves to meet at the back of his neck.

"Len . . . Len darling—I've always loved you and I—I would not let myself admit it. I've been such a fool. If you can forgive me . . ."

"Forgive, darling . . . I understand. Things that happened."

"Things that were good for me and I didn't realize . . ."

"We won't think about it, sweetheart. We'll just go on from here, with everybody happy. I can't offer you much but . . ."

"Love," Marianne finished the sentence on a tremulous note.

"And love, Len, is everything."

THE office girl had found a tee, slammed it down before Hickey, and started back toward the front of the shop.

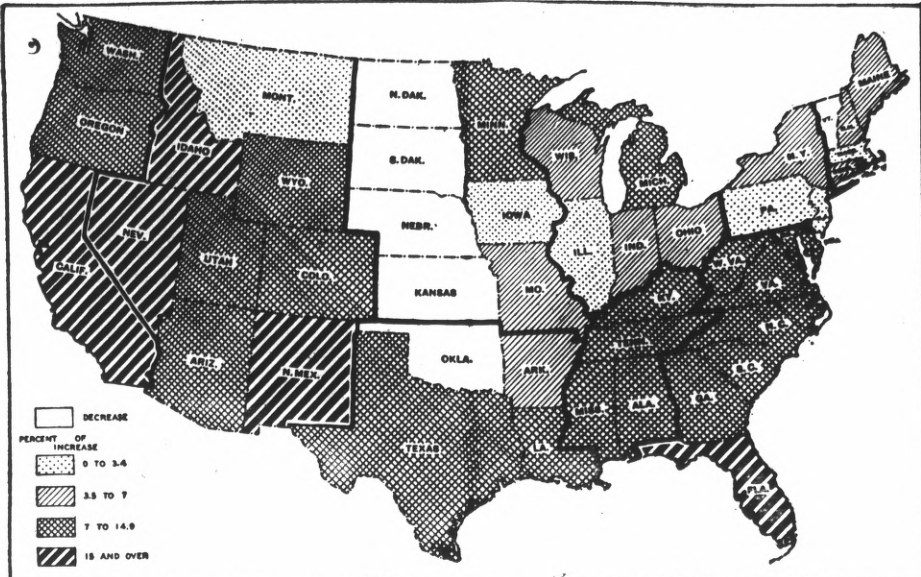

"Don't go in there!" Hickey said sharply.

"Why?" the girl retorted. "You know you shouldn't keep the door to the front room closed. I've a right to go in there."

"In a few minutes," Hickey answered. "You wouldn't understand, but it's kinda—er—sacred. Right now—that plumbing shop is heaven. You and I ain't disturbing it with earthly things."

Growth of the United States, 1930-1940

This map illustrates the growth of population in the decade from 1930 to 1940, as shown by preliminary figures of the sixteenth United States census. The national population on April 1 was 131,409,881, an increase of seven per cent for the ten years, smallest increase since the first census in 1790. Six states showed a decrease.

LOTUS NOTES

Charles Ybright and wife of Shingle and Mrs. Emma Christman and Mrs. Lena Lakshas of Snoqualmie, Washington, were in our town on Tuesday last. Mrs. Christman is an aunt of Charlie, and both are visiting with him for a while. Charlie and Verna came up to our town to get some winter pears and his aunt and lady friend came along with them for a ride and to see our town. Charlie has been employed at the lime quarry near Shingle for the past 15 years.

Charlie Hines and wife drove to Sacramento on Monday for a business and pleasure trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vaughn left on Tuesday of last week for San Jose to attend the firemen's state convention of which they have been honored members for a number of years past. From there they drove down to Pacific Grove where they spent a few days visiting with Chester's sister, returning to Lotus. They had a lovely time and saw a very large crowd at the convention.

Among those from here who went over to Placerville the past week to transact business and see the town were Mrs. Harry Reaside, Mrs. Norman Peterson, Judge Rasmussen, Mrs. Florence Hines, Mrs. Lottie Galleher, Mrs. Amanda Fenske, Cyrus Donahue and George Pountain.

Otto Fenske who has been working at the large fruit packing plant at Placerville during the summer months left here last week for Richmond where he will follow his trade roofing houses.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vaughn had as their guests a week ago, Mrs. Moccitini and her three daughters, Edna, Grace and Angela, of Lathrop, and a very nice day was spent. Mrs. R. Allen and her son joined the visiting ladies during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fenske of Berkeley came up the past week and spent Sunday and Sunday with his parents, Otto Fenske and his wife, returning to Berkeley on Sunday evening.

Among the visitors to our town the past week were Anthony Kincaid, the washing machine salesman, and his wife, Roy Cameron, the chimney sweep; Mrs. Verna Brame of the Antique Shop, from Placerville; Mrs. Irma Lawyer and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Tidd, who came down from Uncle Tom's resort to attend the Rebekah card party held at Coloma Tuesday of last week. We look for Irma and her daughter to attend the Gold Trail Grange card party on Saturday night, Oct. 19—as both ladies much enjoy playing whist.

We wish to extend thanks to our long-time friend Will O. Upton of Placerville for a copy presented to us—a history of all the Churches in El Dorado County from 1850 to 1940—written and published by him. We must say that we have carefully read his 59-page book and find it in every way up to date and again about as true as can be written. We again wish to thank Will for his kindness in giving us the book.

So far a marker for old Uniontown which we have mentioned several times has not yet been put up. Coloma has its marker and Uniontown, now Lotus, should by all means have one as it is among the oldest towns in our county. We do not know who to write to about one for Uniontown. Our Editor will do us a great favor if he will or can tell us who to communicate with.

The E. C. H. S. bus is back to Lotus after a few weeks at Garden Valley. Our bus driver, Ray Rosenberger, of Coloma, has been taken off and going to Garden Valley as they have put on a larger bus from Georgetown to Placerville taking all the scholars on the north side.

We learn that the Placerville taxi cab will start running the taxi from Placerville to Coloma about Oct. 15 leaving Gold Hill, Lotus and Pilot Hill off the map. These three towns are small but well along in population. Lotus in particular is quite a business town and well along in population since the two large dredges are working here. We have seen no schedule time of the taxi's departure and return from Placerville to Coloma. Lotus should not be left out.

This is our last week of deer season. Again we have not heard of any of the animals being killed around Lotus the past week. Jack Lee, one of the welders for the two dredges here brought home a nice buck last week which he killed near Sonora while he was on his vacation.

tus ladies were drinking a coca cola float when one of them said a little rum or gin would not go bad in it. We told them that drinking rum and gin is a dreadful sin; it makes clothes all stowed up—hats all smashed in all come about by the drinking of rum and gin. They laughed and said you are quite a poet if you only know it.

Your correspondent has just received an invitation to attend the pioneer dinner given by Placerville Parlor of Native Daughters at the Merryman Hall on Sunday, next, Oct. 13. We thank you ladies, and we will be with you on that date.

Leonard Schneider of Sacramento, to R. Douglas of Folsom and Fred Castillo of Lotus, left on Sunday morning for a few days' hunting.

Miss Helen Baeside, who left on Tuesday of last week for a few days visit in San Francisco, returned to her home on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stevenson of Sacramento and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ronzone came over to visit with Mrs. Lottie Galleher Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ella Norris and Mrs. Wm. Staggs were over from Coloma on Tuesday afternoon to do a little visiting and marketing.

Lotus was well represented at the Rebekahs' first fall card party at Coloma. Mr. and Mrs. H. Reaside, E. D. Peil, Mrs. Lottie Galleher, Mrs. Charles Hines and Mr. and Mrs. H. Williamson of Springvale were among those who tried their skill.

POLLOCK PINES NOTES

E. Boles is getting along fine after his operation, and expects to be out in a week or so.

Mrs. R. Phillips and children, C. Moulton and F. Emerson spent Sunday at Arbuckle.

Mrs. Roy Headington enjoyed the company of a few friends Saturday night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Ripley, Mrs. Wm. Scarborough and family, Douglas Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Potts and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dunn. The evening was spent playing cards and refreshments were served later in the evening.

There will be a card party at the Missouri Flat hall October 29. Lots of nice prizes.

COMMUNIST PARTY RULED OFF BALLOT FOLLOWING NOV. 5 ELECTION

SACRAMENTO, (AP)—The communist party has been ruled off California's ballot with the signing by Gov. Culbert L. Olson, liberal democrat, of a legislative measure disqualifying the party as an affiliate of a foreign government.

Because the bill is not effective for 90 days, the communist ticket will appear for the last time on the general election ballot Nov. 5.

The governor gave a strongly-worded explanation of his action. He noted, however, that the bill of disqualification did not impair the right of freedom of speech and assembly or any of the civil liberties guaranteed under the constitution.

"At this critical time in the world's history and in our international relationships," Olson said, "sentiment against alien-controlled parties in the United States has virtually become a demand for legislative action. It has been aggravated by the scurrilous methods and abusive manner in which com-

"PRIDE AND PREJUDICE" EMPIRE FEATURE FOR TWO DAYS

Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier picked up where they left off five years ago as reigning favorites of the London stage for their first co-starring film, the picturization of Jane Austen's romantic comedy, "Pride and Prejudice," which comes to the Empire Theatre for Wednesday and Thursday.

They form the perfect screen romantic team with Miss Garson playing the lovely but prejudiced Elizabeth Bennett and Olivier as the proud Darcy. The amusing story in which Miss Austen poked fun at the haughty society of the early nineteenth century is woven around the five unwedded Bennet daughters who live in a provincial English town.

Roosevelt Appointment Held Affront To 16,500,000

SAN FRANCISCO—The appointment of Elliot Roosevelt to a swivel chair captaincy in the U. S. Army air corps reserve is a direct slap in the face to 16,500,000 American young men who will register for the draft on October 16.

Charles C. McGonegal of San Francisco, World War hero, wearer of the Order of the Purple Heart and a man who left both his hands on the battle fields of France, made this declaration today discussing what he termed was the "latest effort to create a Roosevelt dynasty in America."

McGonegal received the wounds that cost him his hands in the Tour sector on February 3, 1918, when he was a buck private in B Company, 18th Infantry, First Division, A. E. F. However, with two steel hooks for hands McGonegal has won success in business, flies an airplane, drives a car, shaves, and dresses himself.

The action of President Roosevelt in allowing his son to be commissioned over the heads of other young men who will have to take their chances in the draft is reminiscent of the nobility of Europe with its inherited military titles," McGonegal said.

"With democracy throughout the world engaged in a death struggle, the head of the government of the greatest democracy on the face of the earth allows his son to be placed in a cushy job on the eve of the draft."

"It was not long ago that Jimmie Roosevelt was made a colonel in the Marine Corps. Now it is Elliot who is commissioned."

"Such actions are detrimental to the morale of the young men who are ready and willing to take their chances in the army."

"How will those young men feel when they are bossed and given orders by a youth with no qualifications as an officer other than the fact that his father is President?"

Fifth columnists in our midst! Several of the Majorettes were seen talking to some Auburn rooters—male ones—at the game. By the way, girls, how's Angelo?

Citizenship

Campaign buttons are all the rage, with slogans varying from just plain candidate names to "No Third Term for Roosevelt," and "No Third Term for Wilkie." Colleen Clayton turns a fiery red at the mere mention of the word Democrat; her favorite quotation is: "I hate war. Eleanor hates war." Colleen adds, "And we all hate Eleanor!" Chubby Henderson has just as definite ideas on the other side—as does many another.

Woe be unto those girls who have boy friends in each party, for they never can manage to be wearing the right button at the right time!

"Sour" Apple

Someone presented Mr. Lung with a nice, big, red apple, the other day, but fortunately for the "prof" he was shrewd enough to look a gift apple in the mouth—or was it a case of looking an apple-polisher in the eye? Investigation disclosed the apple had been used for a football by the students in the lower hall, in addition to which, a large piece had been skillfully removed from one side of the forbidden fruit!

Side-Saddle Drape

By VERA WINSTON

THE SIDE-SWEPT look is at its very best in this dress of black rayon crepe. The closing is outlined by a narrow band with transparent composition buttons. The draping all radiates from this band, which forms a wrap around skirt with fullness towards the button-side. Here's a dress that is kind to any figure and especially flattering to the slender type. Nice for the bright lights of late afternoon.

CARELESS SMOKERS, POOR HOUSEKEEPING HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR LARGE SHARE OF FIRES THROUGHOUT NATION

Careless smokers are responsible for starting more fires in the United States than are caused from any other source.

This fact was indicated as the result of a poll taken recently by the Automobile Insurance Company and The Standard Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, in which fire chiefs in 225 representative American cities were questioned as to the leading causes of fires in their respective communities.

Out of this group of centers ranging in population from 10,000 to Greater New York's nearly seven millions, about 43 per cent reported that the careless disposal of cigars, cigarettes and matches, showed up on fire department records as the most frequent cause, either directly or indirectly, of destructive fires.

The second most frequent cause, according to the report, is attributable to poor housekeeping on the part of residence and commercial property owners and tenants. Accumulations of inflammable rubbish and waste materials both inside and outside of buildings was shown to be the second most important cause of fires in the majority of cities queried, and ranked as the leading cause in approximately 60 cities out of the total group.

Other causes in the order of their frequency are listed as follows:

Third, fires caused from miscellaneous electrical hazards, such as defective wiring, appliances, fuses, short circuits, etc. Fourth, fires of undetermined origin. Fifth, chimney sparks igniting shingle roofs. Sixth, defective chimneys. Seventh, fires resulting from the use of gasoline or other inflammable liquids. And eighth, the careless disposal of hot ashes. In the case of the last named hazard, it was found that Colorado Springs, Colorado, with a population of 33,500, and an actual fire loss in 1939, of $79,019.28, suffered the majority of its fires due to the use of a type of lignite coal mined and used locally which produced a light, feathery ash that holds fire from 24 to 72 hours, and making safe disposal of the ashes unusually difficult.

The combined causes given above were responsible last year for an aggregate fire loss for the entire group of cities amounting to more than $25,500,000.

Fire chiefs in these cities were asked what in their opinion was the most important single factor in reducing the annual national fire loss. The majority agreed that increased and unceasing education of the public in the general practice of fire prevention is the most important factor. Many, however, indicated that a more rigid system of property inspection on the part of fire department officials would be one of the most effective measures.

It is the general assertion of fire officials that an adequately equipped fire department is no longer concerned principally with the checking of fires, once started. This work must now be divided on a proportionate basis with the broader field of prevention of fires before they occur.
